

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE AND VIRGINIA ADVERTISER.

ALEXANDRIA, VA.

MONDAY EVENING, JUNE 26, 1882.

WHETHER THEY be right or wrong, it is an unquestioned fact that a large number of people, and among them many of those best qualified by study and experience to form a correct opinion on the subject, now believe that Guiteau is insane, and who, should he be hanged on Friday, as he will be, will go to their graves under that conviction, and who will teach their children to believe that the judicial and executive branches of the Government were in the hands of men so deficient in moral courage that they were influenced by popular clamor not only to permit but to sanction the death of an irresponsible man. The country is already stained with one judicial murder, but that can be accounted for, though not excused, by the extraordinary excitement prevailing at the time it was committed, and retribution has already overtaken all the murderers. Why should there be a duplicate of that stain when it can be avoided so easily? A delegation of the most eminent scientists of the land, familiar with all the degrees of mental aberration, merely ask a respite for a week or two in order that they may make a purely scientific, with all the exclusiveness that term implies, examination of the prisoner. If after such an examination they should decide that Guiteau is a responsible being, he would be hanged by the unanimous verdict of his countrymen. That he is, and has been ever since he fired his fatal shot, playing a part contradicts human nature, for the intense concentration and unceasing vigilance requisite for the successful performance of such a part would long since have rendered any sane man a raving maniac.

It is said that the speech on the subject of the Virginia State debt delivered by Mr. John Paul is in greater demand in the North than almost any other speech made in the U. S. House of Representatives during the current session of that body. It has now been more than a month since that speech was delivered, and yet no attempt has been made to refute it, though the Virginia delegation in the House contains several reputed orators, and though its complete and effectual refutation would be an easy task for any sensible and well informed man. Silence is an effective but dangerous quality. It is sometimes the perfection of wisdom, but at others, just the reverse, and in the case alluded to is looked upon in the North as conclusive evidence of a bad cause.

OF ALL who oppose the idea of Democrats supporting Mr. Massey for Congressman at large those who object to it most strenuously are the Mahoneites. General Mahone's Washington and home organs, and all his little organs in the State, and all his followers are actively engaged in all sorts of attempts to prevent Mr. Massey from receiving the support referred to. This fact alone is sufficient to induce all wise Democrats to accept Mr. Massey as their candidate. The Democrats are in need of help, and as the Mahoneites fear of Massey shows that they think he can bring the Democrats more help than any other man, the Democrats will be unwise if they do not make the best of the situation, and profit by the alarm of their enemies.

AS AN evidence of Mr. Massey's personal strength with the people, irrespective of his politics, attention is directed to a paragraph in the GAZETTE's Washington correspondence of to-day, in which it is stated that of the only three people with whom the correspondent talked during a ferry boat trip between this city and Washington, on Saturday, two were Northern men, but adopted citizens of Virginia, and life-long Republicans, and that both of them introduced the subject of election, and expressed the hope that Mr. Massey would be the candidate, and volunteered the statement that if he should be they would willingly vote for him.

THE DEMOCRATS in the U. S. House of Representatives assisted the Republicans the other day in passing a bill appropriating one hundred millions of dollars, nominally to give pensions to federal soldiers, but really to benefit a ring of claim agents. They knew it was wrong, but they also knew that if they opposed the bill they and the party to which they belonged would be accused throughout the length and breadth of the North of hostility to the men who had fought for the Union, and thus, paradoxical as it was, were compelled to injure their country in order to exhibit their patriotism.

THE LATEST estimate of the amount that will be raised under the enforced collection of the political assessment made by the Republican Congressional Committee is two millions of dollars. It is hardly possible that more than one-eighth of that sum can be expended in printing and in paying speakers. To what uses then is the remainder to be applied? To ask this question is to answer it, and the answer holds no good to the country, for when the voters are purchasable, the men who have that much money at their disposal can carry elections as they choose, and men who bribe voters do so in their own, rather than in the interests of the country.

Within the last few weeks thirty Hungarians and Poles, suffering from scurvy in its worst form, as well as pneumonia, have been admitted to the Pottsville (Pa.) hospital.

The Spanish minister of finance has introduced a bill in the Chamber of Deputies reducing the tariff on coal, cotton, leather and some other articles.

FROM WASHINGTON
[Special Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 26.—While coming from Alexandria to Washington last Saturday, on the ferry boat, the GAZETTE's correspondent conversed a few moments with only three of the other passengers, two of whom came from the North, but have been living in Virginia ever since the war. One was a resident of Fairfax county, and had once held an important representative position from that county; the other was an enterprising and successful merchant of Alexandria, and both are now and have been republicans all their lives. They both took occasion to talk about the approaching election, and both volunteered the expression of an unqualified intention to vote for Mr. Massey should he be a candidate for Congressman-at-large. This is a pretty good indication of the strength Mr. Massey would bring to the Democrats if they make him their candidate.

Times change and manners with them. Rev. Hyatt Smith, the "Independent" from Brooklyn who attended the republican caucus and was as ultra as any man in it, appeared in the House Saturday morning in his shirt sleeves, and it is a common practice of some of the republican members of the House to smoke cigars while the House is in session at their seats and in the aisles, and even in the area in front of the Speaker's desk. As heretofore predicted in this correspondence the days of one or more of the Richmond Custom House officials are rapidly drawing to a close. In the case of Capt. Cook the one armed Union soldier, it is now known that the scheme made known through the GAZETTE of giving his place to a well-known ex-federal officer has received the final sanction of the Boss. The favorite is said to have been a Colonel in the Union army, and to have resided a number of years in the State and to bear a historical name quite dear to the memories of many Virginians, especially those who lived in the exciting days of 40 and 44.

Except on the theory of saving one northern man and quondam "Straightout" it would be puzzling to tell why President Arthur is just now taking a little more than ordinary interest in Jorgensen's Congressional aspirations to another term. It was supposed Jorgensen was dead, or in other words that Mahone had ordered the gallows for him, very much after the fashion that Warden Crocker has greased a rope for the neck of Guiteau. But, lo, it is now believed that some mysterious influence has been seeking a respite for Jorgensen, and that Mahone has been brought almost to the point of assenting to his renomination. The facts appear to be that Jorgensen held an interview with Arthur a few days before the late re-adjuster conference at Richmond. Just after this meeting Mahone and Arthur had a consultation at which it is believed the congressional situation was fully discussed. The President it is surmised may have said a word to the "Boss" about the propriety and wisdom of "letting up" a bit on the cases of one or two of those who have not been in close alliance with the "Ring," and it is this which has wrought the change of relations between Mahone and Jorgensen if any has taken place. But it further appears that certain of Mahone's managers in the last campaign, more particularly Brady, agreed with Jorgensen in consideration of his declaring for the Cameron ticket to make no opposition to him for a re-election. This contract is such as to tie the hands of Brady who but for it, would himself be a candidate. Brady therefore has to be content with twelve years or less of a clerkship in the Court of Appeals and Jorgensen may come again to the House.

One of the excuses the Mahoneites offer the people of Virginia for deserting the democratic party and going over to the republicans, is the assertion that while the democratic party, either from want of inclination or want of power, never do anything that will benefit Virginia, the republican party not only has the desire, but what is of more consequence, the ability to confer favors upon the old State by legislating in their interests. That the republicans have this power no one denies, but that they have the desire to exercise it is utterly disproved by the experience of this session of Congress, for they have positively refused to let the bills for refunding to Virginia the money she advanced the general Government in 1812, and for pensioning the survivors of the Mexican war be reported from the committees to which they were referred; and on Saturday last, a motion to abolish the internal revenue tax on Virginia's staple, tobacco, was defeated by a majority of two, every vote against it being cast by republicans, one of whom was Moore, a Tennessee sealer, and the other, Robeson, who had no right to vote inasmuch as he was paired with Mr. Stephens. Here are three patent refutations of the assertions referred to. Virginia is urgently in need of the payment of her just claim for the money she lent the Government. Many of her old people would be made comfortable for the rest of their lives if they were pensioned for the services they rendered in the Mexican war, by which the country greatly profited both in lands and money, and a removal of the unjustly discriminating tax on her great agricultural product would redound to the benefit of every interest in the State, and yet the republicans, to whom General Mahone gave the Senate, and Messrs. Paul and Fulkerson gave the House of Representatives, positively refuse to let any one of the measures alluded to be adopted, while the Democrats support them almost to a man.

The contested election case of Stovall vs. Cabell, from the 5th Virginia district, may possibly be considered by the House committee on elections this week. All the papers in the case are now ready, and from conferences that have taken place it is not impossible that the committee will consider the case before the close of the week.

The following Virginia postmasters were commissioned to-day: J. T. Lacks, Martin's Store, Halifax co.; C. M. Martz, Oakwood, Rockingham co.; J. O. Roark, Roark, Rockingham co.; and J. W. Heckman, Helms, Franklin co. The President to-day nominated John H. Dean as Postmaster at Winchester.

It is reported here to-day, but the report is not credited, that the President will make public announcement that office holders shall not be removed for failing to pay the political assessment levied upon them by the republican Congressional committee.

In the Senate to-day Mr. Pendleton called up his civil service resolution and spoke thereon, showing that the whole system of political assessments was not only burdensome and unjustly oppressive to those subject to its exactions, but subversive of free institutions, injurious to the prosperity of the country and dangerous to its liberties.

On Wednesday next the centennial of Daniel Webster's birth day will be celebrated at Dartmouth College. Senator Bayard will deliver the address upon the occasion. Prominent Democrats from Virginia here to-day bring a new idea, to the effect that while Mr. Massey seems personally objectionable to some of the leading Democrats of the State, outside of the 7th Congressional district, and Mr. Newberry is not objectionable to them, and is not to be gratified by Mr. Newberry should be re-nominated by the Democrats as the opponent of Mr. Wise, and that Mr. Massey oppose Mr. Paul in the 7th district. They say that the late discussion between Messrs. Newberry and Wise shows that of all men the latter is the one the Democrats should pit against the former.

NEWS OF THE DAY

"To show the very age and body of the Times."

A movement has been started looking to the separation of Norway from Sweden.

Three persons were prostrated by the heat in New York yesterday. A man and woman died from sunstroke in Brooklyn.

A severe wind and rain storm passed from the central to the eastern portion of Nebraska yesterday afternoon. Damage from hail to the crops is reported in four counties. In Omaha the damage is estimated at $50,000.

The Secretary of the Navy is considering the practicability of a suggestion made by Lieut. Danenhower that the bodies of Commander De Long and his deceased comrades of the Jeannette expedition be brought home.

Guiteau is said to be calmly awaiting his fate. John W. Guiteau, his brother, is in Washington, and has asked the President to allow a stay of execution of his brother's sentence to permit an examination by a commission de lunatico inquirendo.

The Egyptian Conference yesterday confirmed the Sultan's sovereign rights in Turkey. The Khedive demands that a searching inquiry be made into the causes of the Alexandria catastrophe, with a view to the punishment of the promoters of the riot. He says it is absolutely necessary that measures be taken for the re-establishment of friendly relations between the natives and Europeans, for the maintenance of order and for the resumption of business on which the prosperity of the country depends.

Rev. Dr. John Poissal, the oldest member of the Baltimore Conference of the M. E. Church South, died yesterday evening in Baltimore after a long illness. He was at one time chaplain of the House of Representatives, and resigned that position to become secretary of the late Mayor Kane of Baltimore. He was born at Martinsburg, W. Va., on May 13th, 1807, and was consequently 75 years of age. With Rev. Alpheus Wilson (late elected Bishop by the General Conference at Nashville) and Rev. Mr. Bussey (since deceased) he established the Methodist Episcopal Church South in Baltimore.

VIRGINIA NEWS.

Ex-Auditor Massey is announced to speak in Grayson county next Monday.

A young man named Mayo Woody fell dead near Gordonsville, a few days ago, of apoplexy.

Thomas Gamaway died in Staunton recently, aged 91 years. He was a soldier of the war of 1812.

Thomas Cousins, wounded last week by an accident on the Virginia Midland R. W., died in Danville Saturday.

Mr. Hiram Dolby, of Winchester, who was esteemed one of the best soldiers in the famous Stonewall Brigade, died last week.

Many cattle are dying in the Blue Ridge mountains between Page and Rappahannock counties. The disease is not known.

A son of D. C. Bennamar, of Rockingham county, shot himself through the head with a pistol and died a few days ago from lockjaw.

A four-year-old daughter of Jefferson Taylor, of Shenandoah county, was burned to death last week by her clothes taking fire from burning coal oil.

The Strawsburg News says "the wild turkey increases rapidly. One man reports twenty-five hens with broods. Won't we have a fine time hunting them next season?"

The Wythe Lead and Zinc Mine Co., of Wythe county, recently sold to parties in New Jersey 3,000 tons of zinc ore, the whole amounting to $23,800, and this heavy bulk is now being shipped.

The fire companies from Harrisburg and Chambersburg, Pa., and from Hagerstown and Frederick City, Md., have accepted the invitation to participate in the firemen's parade in Winchester on the 4th of July.

The commencement exercises of the University of Virginia were inaugurated yesterday evening by the delivery of the annual sermon before the Young Men's Christian Association by Rev. J. L. Barrows, of Norfolk.

An injunction has been granted by Judge Bird, restraining Geo. W. Koontz, Treasurer of Shenandoah county, from collecting county taxes assessed against the B. & O. railroad. It appears that the tax was first levied and paid upon an assessment of $5,000 per mile, and that a new assessment has been made at the rate of $15,000 per mile, in accordance with the revised assessment made by the Board of Public Works.

The Loudoun Mirror says Ada, the little five year old daughter of Mr. John H. Alexander, made a narrow escape from fatal injury last Monday afternoon. While, with one or two other children, she was playing in her father's hay mow, she fell through into the stall below, where she was some minutes afterward found by a colored boy in an unconscious state, with blood oozing from her ear and mouth. Dr. Mott was promptly summoned, and for awhile serious results were apprehended. She rallied during the night, however, and is entirely out of danger.

In the House of Representatives Saturday the consideration of the bill to reduce internal revenue taxation in committee of the whole occupied the day. The provisions embodied in the bill for the relief of the national banks, including the repeal of the tax on bank checks, bills of exchange, bank deposits and bank capital, were sustained, the Democrats generally voting against them and the Republicans in their favor. The repeal of the tax on matches, perfumeries, &c., was also retained in the bill. Mr. Randall, on behalf of the Democrats, offered an amendment providing for the abolition of all taxes on tobacco, cigars, cheroots and cigarettes on the 1st of July, 1883, and for a rebate of tax on all stock on hand at that date. After speeches by Messrs. Randall and Tucker the amendment was defeated by the close vote of 105 yeas to 106 nays. The amendment removing restrictions on the sale of leaf tobacco by the producer was also defeated—yeas 89 nays 91.

Mr. Eveleth vindicated.—In the action of the United States vs. James Eveleth and sureties, to recover $2,700 paid by Eveleth for compensation to himself as the superintendent of the construction of a fireproof roof for Winder's building under the direction of the Secretary of War, Justice MacArthur has decided that the U. S. had no case and gave judgment for Mr. Eveleth. In the same case the Attorney-General gave an opinion to the Secretary of War to the same effect. Comptroller Lawrence forwarded a closely written brief of the case covering thirty-two pages of letter paper, which was presented to the Court by Mr. Coyle and filed in the case.—Wash. Critic.

Letter from the Plains
[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.]
THE PLAINS, Fauquier co., Va., June 24, 1882.—The farmers in this section are busy getting ready for harvest, and ditching against the further intrusions of the army worm, the ravages of which can be seen upon the farms of Col. Robert Beverley, Thos. Henderson and others. The wheat crop is finer than was ever known in this section, and the farmers are anticipating a large yield per acre. But whilst the "harvest is plenty, the laborers are few," and in demand, and wages good.

The commencement exercises of Miss Sue P. Jones' select school took place on the 19th inst., and was in every respect the most brilliant affair of the kind that ever occurred at this place. The music was perfectly splendid, and the recitations beautifully, grand and entertaining.

We heard through the columns of your paper of the erection of a spool factory at this place. Mother rumor also has it that Mr. Wilford McDonald & Son at this place are going to open a machine shop, where they will keep on hand and furnish at short notice all the necessary repairs for agricultural machinery.

Dr. J. P. Slaughter late of Broad Run Station is giving the people of this village and vicinity the full benefit of his professional services and creating quite a rivalry among that class of professionals.

The Good Templars of Minnehaha Lodge, had a strawberry and ice cream festival on the 20th inst., which was well attended, and liberally patronized. The "rare and radiant" were out in full force, and the "lads" were not remiss in supplying them with the luxuries upon that occasion, the Good Templars realizing about $20 clear of all expenses.

Mr. J. M. Eberley, the efficient and obliging telegraph operator at this place, who graduated under the tutorage of Mr. O. F. Pirkey, of Strasburg, Va., is 44 inches high and weighs 98 lbs, and his conversational powers are first class, while he is amenable to all the religious and moral influences that should govern the individual being—the old school Presbyterian persuasion, but very liberal in his christian views, attends two Sunday Schools, and the Children's Humane Association for the prevention of cruelty to dumb animals, and also believes in the principle of total abstinence from all intoxicating drinks.

BILL.

SENATORS.—The Washington American Register says:

"Unhappily Senator Johnston, of Virginia, a worthy representative of the present and past of the Old Dominion, has been supplanted by Mr. Riddleberger, commonly deemed a diminutive accident of this revolutionary period in American politics. There is little doubt about the re-election of the excellent, practical and laborious representative in the Senate from West Virginia. Mr. Davis has the advantage, too, of the moral support of the 'Mother of States and statesmen.' His competitor can only win through extraneous influences coming from beyond the Ohio, while the whole strength and moral power of Mr. Davis is Virginian, old and new. He has done his State and people such effective service, and his ability and fidelity are so well recognized that he can have no dangerous opposition."

On Saturday Representative Hazelton, of Wisconsin, chairman of the House Committee on Pacific Railroads, reported a substitute for the original bill incorporating the National Railway Company. The substitute authorizes the company to build a railroad from Washington to the Hudson river, opposite New York. First-class fare between the two cities must not exceed $5, and the time for transporting the United States mail must not exceed six hours and thirty minutes. The charter cannot be assigned to any other company. The construction of the road must be begun within twelve months of the passage of the act.

There seems to have been one name omitted in the card of the "tally association." Why is this thus? Has anybody been tampering with the GAZETTE's devil?

SENATE.

Mr. Gorman introduced a bill constituting Robert Garrett, Wm. F. Burns, and Wm. F. Frick, of Maryland, and their associates, a company to lay a telegraph cable between America and Europe. Referred to Committee on Foreign Relations.

Mr. Allison, from the Appropriations Committee reported back the legislative executive and judicial appropriation bill with amendments and gave notice that he would move its consideration to-morrow. It provides for an aggregate of appropriations amounting to 20,200,000 being an increase of 326,000 over the amount of the bill as it passed the House.

HOUSE.

Mr. Butterworth, of Ohio, submitted the conference report on the army appropriation bill and it was agreed to, after which, under the call of States sundry bills were introduced and referred.

Mr. Hiseock, of New York, chairman of the committee on appropriations, reported the sundry civil appropriation bill. Ordered printed and recommitted.

The Egyptian Question.

LONDON, June 26.—The Times in a leading article says: "It may be taken for granted that there is something more than empty sound behind the preparations at the docks. We can but hope that if the conference fails to find any solution of the Egyptian question, France will agree with England upon some plan of united action or leave us free to act alone."

The correspondent of the Times at Alexandria says: Arabi Pacha states that if the Porte abandons him, he will publish correspondence proving that every step he has taken since the 7th of September last was instigated by the Porte.

Canning Establishment Burned.
FORT MONROE, June 26.—Fire broke out last night in the large canning establishment of McHenamin & Co., at Hampton, consuming the building and contents, valued at $30,000. The fire was the work an incendiary.
